

EXPLORE - OBSERVE - RESPECT

RANTHAMBORE

SAFARI ZONE GUIDE

RANTHAMBORE

EXPLORE - OBSERVE - RESPECT

SAFARI ZONE GUIDE

Zone 1

At a Glance

In Zone 1 of Ranthambhore National Park, majestic tigers stealthily navigate through the dense, sun-dappled forests, embodying the wild spirit of the jungle. Graceful chital deer and playful langurs inhabit the lush undergrowth, adding to the vibrant tapestry of wildlife.

The air is alive with the calls of exotic birds, creating a symphony of sounds that enhances the enchanting forest atmosphere.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Banyan Tree

A majestic banyan tree (Ficus benghalensis) located near the Jogi Mahal, a hunting lodge, and is considered one of India's largest banyan trees.

Khajoor Tree

"Khajoor" refers to the date palm tree (Phoenix sylvestris), and it's cultivated for its sweet and nutritious fruits, particularly in arid and semi-arid regions like Rajasthan and Gujarat.

Dhonk Tree

The "dhonk" tree, scientifically known as Anogeissus pendula, is a common sight in the Aravalli mountain range and Ranthambore National Park, known for its hard timber and leaves used as fodder for livestock.

FINC

FINC

Zone 2

At a Glance

In Zone 2 of Ranthambhore National Park, the regal presence of tigers prowls near the ruins of the grand Ranthambhore Fort, blending wildlife with rich history.

Elegant sambar deer often graze in the shadow of ancient temples, their serene beauty contrasting with the rugged stone architecture.

The vibrant hues of kingfishers and the calls of peacocks create a symphony of life amidst the echoes of a glorious past.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Tendu Tree

The Tendu tree, abundant in Ranthambhore, is known for its heart-shaped leaves, which are harvested for making bidis. It thrives in the park's dry forests, providing vital habitat for wildlife and contributing to the local economy.

Mango Tree

The mango tree in Ranthambhore is a prominent feature of the park's landscape, offering shade and seasonal fruit. It attracts a variety of wildlife, including langurs and deer, during the summer months when its fruit ripens.

Jamun Tree

The Jamun tree in Ranthambhore is cherished for its deep purple fruits, which are a vital food source for many animals. It thrives in the park's dry deciduous forests, offering shade and sustenance to wildlife during the hot summer months.

SCIENCE

SCIENCE

Zone 3

At a Glance

In Zone 3 of Ranthambhore National Park, majestic tigers roam beneath the ancient ruins of centuries-old forts, creating a stunning juxtaposition of nature and history. The vibrant peacocks display their iridescent feathers amidst the remnants of bygone eras, adding to the park's enchanting landscape. Visitors are captivated by the graceful chital deer, often seen grazing near the crumbling stone structures that whisper tales of the past. Here the history meets wilderness with Ranthambhore fort rising above the forest canopy. The ancient Jogimahal situated on the bank of padam taal.

Zone 3 stands out for its ancient structures and ruins like hunting palace, chatra, yagyshala, bada gate, jogimahal etc. it reminds visitors that Ranthambhore was once a royal hunting ground. Efforts of forest department has turned it into a tiger's home.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Kadam Tree

The Kadam tree, found in Ranthambhore, is a dense, evergreen species known for its fragrant yellow flowers and large, broad leaves. It provides essential shade and shelter to wildlife, particularly in the park's dry, hot climate.

Kachnar Tree

Bauhinia racemosa, also known as the "Kachnar tree," is a prominent species in Ranthambhore, recognized for its unique, white or pale purple flowers. It plays an important role in the ecosystem, providing food and shelter for various wildlife, including herbivores and insects.

Indian Ash Tree

Lannea coromandelica, commonly found in Ranthambhore, is a deciduous tree with a distinctive rough bark and small, yellowish flowers. It plays an important ecological role, offering food and shelter to various wildlife species in the park.

ARTINCO

ARTINCO

[illegible]

Zone 4

At a Glance

In Zone 4 of Ranthambhore National Park, the graceful movement of leopards can be spotted near the weathered walls of old hunting lodges, a reminder of the area's royal heritage.

Majestic crocodiles bask in the sun along the banks of tranquil ponds, framed by the remnants of ancient palaces. The lush greenery is alive with the calls of vibrant birds, creating a breathtaking backdrop against the storied ruins that dot the landscape.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Khair Tree

Acacia catechu, commonly known as Khair, is a hardy tree found in Ranthambhore National Park, thriving in dry and rocky habitats. Its wood is valued for its medicinal properties and is commonly used in traditional practices, while the tree provides vital shelter and food for various wildlife species in the region.

Gond Katira Tree

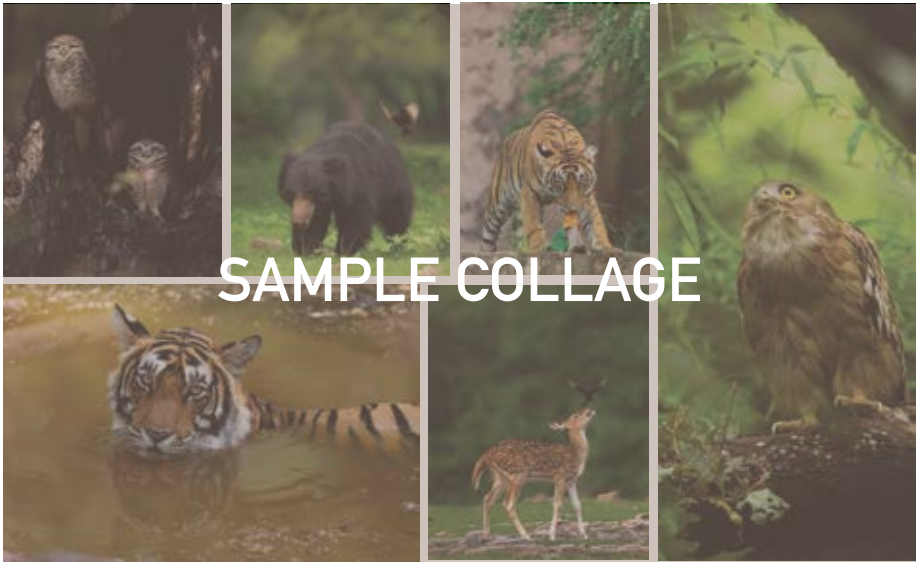

Sterculia urens, also known as the Gond Katira tree, is found in the dry forests of Ranthambhore National Park. Its gum, known as 'Indian gum,' is commercially important, and the tree provides habitat for several wildlife species in the region.

Grewia Shrub

Grewia flavescens, commonly known as the yellow-barked grewia, is found in the arid landscapes of Ranthambhore National Park. Its leaves are an important food source for herbivores, and the tree also contributes to the park's biodiversity with its dense growth.

Major Fauna in the Jungle

Points of Interest

INSERT IMAGE

Gular Kui
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Semli Khuranja
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Malik Talab
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Lakkarda Talab
I'm a Text

Zone 5

At a Glance

In Zone 5 of Ranthambhore National Park, the tranquil ponds are a haven for wildlife, where elegant sambar deer frequently visit to quench their thirst.

Majestic birds like painted storks and herons can be seen wading gracefully along the water's edge, adding splashes of color to the serene landscape. Crocodiles bask in the sun nearby, completing the vibrant tapestry of life around these beautiful aquatic spots.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Wild Sugarcane

Wild sugarcane in Ranthambhore thrives in the region's wetlands, providing an important food source for wildlife, including herbivores like sambhar and langurs. Its dense growth also offers natural cover for various animals, enhancing the biodiversity of the reserve.

Khus Grass

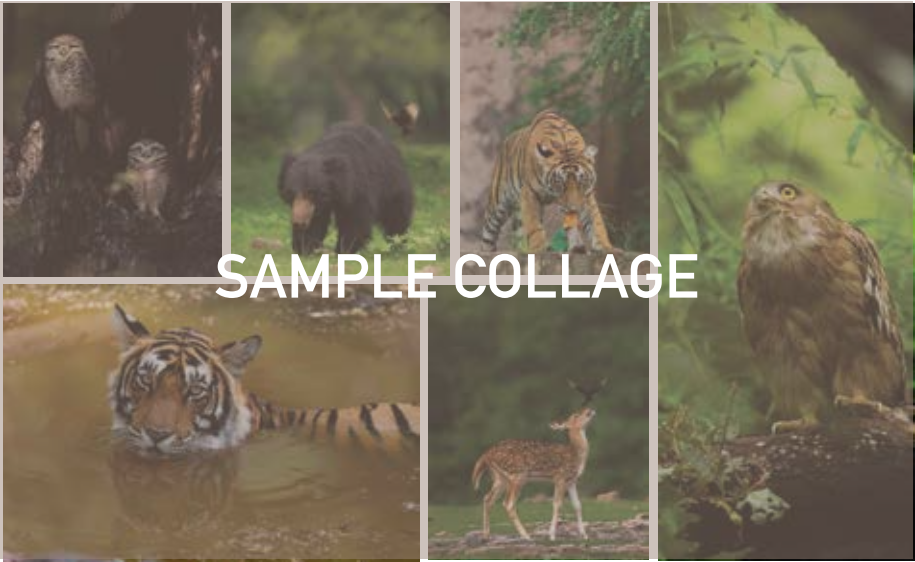

Khus grass in Ranthambhore is known for its aromatic roots, which are used in traditional cooling agents and perfumes. It also plays an important role in stabilizing the soil and supporting the region's diverse wildlife ecosystem.

Palash Tree

The Palash tree, also known as the "Flame of the Forest," is a vibrant symbol of Ranthambhore, especially during its striking orange-red bloom. It holds cultural significance and is a favorite of local wildlife, attracting birds and insects.

Major Fauna in the Jungle

Points of Interest

INSERT IMAGE

Eagle Point
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Bhakola
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Kachida Valley
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Peepli Deh
I'm a Text

Zone 6

At a Glance

In Zone 6 of Ranthambhore National Park, the expansive grasslands and gentle slopes form a breathtaking landscape, perfect for spotting the agile chinkara. These elegant gazelles gracefully navigate the sun-drenched terrain, their striking silhouettes adding life to the serene backdrop. The interplay of light and shadow across the undulating hills creates a picturesque scene that highlights the natural beauty of this unique habitat.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Lapla Grass

Aristida adscensionis, commonly found in Ranthambhore, is a hardy grass species that thrives in the park's dry, arid conditions. Its tall, tufted growth provides important ground cover and serves as grazing material for herbivores in the reserve.

Ronjh Tree

The Ronjh tree in Ranthambhore, known for its hard wood and dense foliage, thrives in the region's dry forests. It plays a vital role in providing shade and shelter for wildlife, while also contributing to the overall biodiversity of the area.

Lobaan

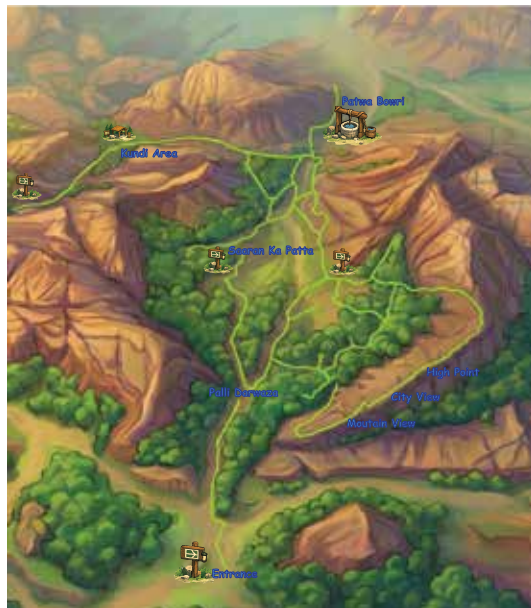

Boswellia serrata, found in Ranthambhore, is known for its resin, commonly referred to as frankincense, which has medicinal and aromatic value. The tree thrives in the dry, rocky terrain of the park, contributing to both the ecosystem and local traditional practices.

Major Fauna in the Jungle

Points of Interest

INSERT IMAGE	Palli Darwaza I'm a Text
INSERT IMAGE	Saaran Ka Patta I'm a Text
INSERT IMAGE	Moutain View I'm a Text
INSERT IMAGE	Zone 6 High Point I'm a Text
INSERT IMAGE	Patwa Stepwell I'm a Text
INSERT IMAGE	Kundi Area I'm a Text

Zone 7

At a Glance

In Zone 7 of Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary, the rugged terrain of rocky outcrops and dense forests provides a stunning habitat for elusive leopards. These magnificent big cats expertly navigate the steep slopes, often perched on branches or blending seamlessly into their surroundings.

The interplay of light filtering through the trees creates a magical atmosphere, enhancing the thrill of witnessing these beautiful creatures in their natural domain.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Amaltas

Amaltas, or Cassia Fistula, thrives in the Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary, adding a vibrant touch with its bright yellow flowers. This tree is a common sight in the sanctuary, often blooming during the summer months, enhancing the park's natural beauty.

Semal

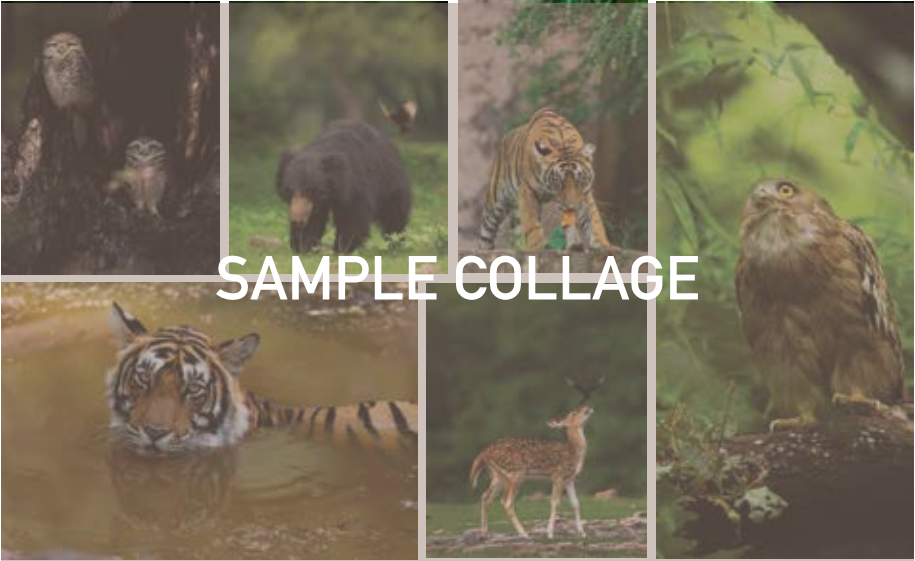

Semal, or the Silk Cotton tree, is found in Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary, known for its striking red flowers. The tree provides vital habitat and food for various birds and wildlife in the sanctuary.

Apluda Mutica

Apluda mutica, commonly known as the marsh grass, is found in Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary, thriving in the wetland areas. Its dense growth supports a variety of wildlife, particularly small mammals and birds.

Major Fauna in the Jungle

Points of Interest

INSERT
IMAGE

Aam Kua
I'm a Text

INSERT
IMAGE

Kali Talai
I'm a Text

INSERT
IMAGE

Tuta Anicut
I'm a Text

INSERT
IMAGE

Mountain View Point
I'm a Text

Zone 8

At a Glance

In Zone 8 of Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary, the enchanting landscape is home to a variety of beautiful carnivores, including the elusive leopard and the regal tiger.

These magnificent predators roam the diverse terrain, from lush forests to open grasslands, showcasing their power and grace. The sight of a tiger stalking through the tall grass or a leopard lounging in the trees is a breathtaking reminder of nature's wild beauty.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Tendu

The Tendu fruit tree, Diospyros melanoxylon, is a medium-sized, drought-tolerant deciduous tree found in Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary. It is highly valued for its leaves which are used as wrappers for making the traditional Indian cigarette called 'beedi'.

Jhadi Ber

Jhadi ber (Ziziphus nummularia) is a prominent thorny shrub found in the dry deciduous forest landscape of the Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary. Its leaves and small, edible berries are a vital part of the diet for many herbivores, such as Nilgai and deer, within the sanctuary.

Apluda Mutica

Apluda mutica, commonly known as the marsh grass, is found in Sawai Mansingh Sanctuary, thriving in the wetland areas. Its dense growth supports a variety of wildlife, particularly small mammals and birds.

Major Fauna in the Jungle

Points of Interest

INSERT
IMAGE

Maha Kho
I'm a Text

INSERT
IMAGE

Gol Chata
I'm a Text

INSERT
IMAGE

Sitamata Ghati
I'm a Text

INSERT
IMAGE

Mountain View
I'm a Text

Zone 9

At a Glance

In Zone 6 of Ranthmbhore National Park, the expansive grasslands and gentle slopes form a breathtaking landscape, perfect for spotting the agile chinkara. These elegant gazelles gracefully navigate the sun-drenched terrain, their striking silhouettes adding life to the serene backdrop. The interplay of light and shadow across the undulating hills creates a picturesque scene that highlights the natural beauty of this unique habitat.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Lapla Grass

Aristida adscensionis, commonly found in Ranthambhore, is a hardy grass species that thrives in the park's dry, arid conditions. Its tall, tufted growth provides important ground cover and serves as grazing material for herbivores in the reserve.

Ronjh Tree

The Ronjh tree in Ranthambhore, known for its hard wood and dense foliage, thrives in the region's dry forests. It plays a vital role in providing shade and shelter for wildlife, while also contributing to the overall biodiversity of the area.

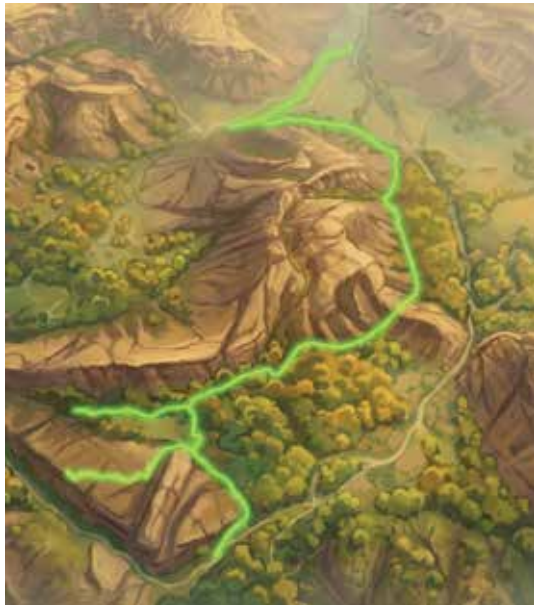

Lobaan

Boswellia serrata, found in Ranthambhore, is known for its resin, commonly referred to as frankincense, which has medicinal and aromatic value. The tree thrives in the dry, rocky terrain of the park, contributing to both the ecosystem and local traditional practices.

QFINZ

QFINZ

Zone 10

At a Glance

In Zone 6 of Ranthambhore National Park, the expansive grasslands and gentle slopes form a breathtaking landscape, perfect for spotting the agile chinkara. These elegant gazelles gracefully navigate the sun-drenched terrain, their striking silhouettes adding life to the serene backdrop. The interplay of light and shadow across the undulating hills creates a picturesque scene that highlights the natural beauty of this unique habitat.

Major Flora in the Jungle

Lapla Grass

Aristida adscensionis, commonly found in Ranthambhore, is a hardy grass species that thrives in the park's dry, arid conditions. Its tall, tufted growth provides important ground cover and serves as grazing material for herbivores in the reserve.

Ronjh Tree

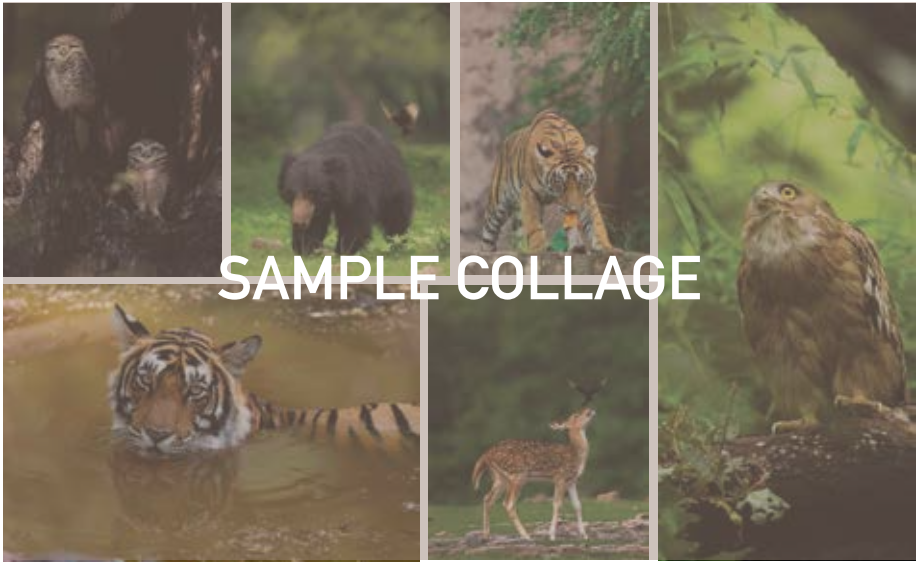

The Ronjh tree in Ranthambhore, known for its hard wood and dense foliage, thrives in the region's dry forests. It plays a vital role in providing shade and shelter for wildlife, while also contributing to the overall biodiversity of the area.

Lobaan

Boswellia serrata, found in Ranthambhore, is known for its resin, commonly referred to as frankincense, which has medicinal and aromatic value. The tree thrives in the dry, rocky terrain of the park, contributing to both the ecosystem and local traditional practices.

Major Fauna in the Jungle

Points of Interest

INSERT IMAGE

Palli Darwaza
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Saaran Ka Patta
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Moutain View
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Zone 6 High Point
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Patwa Stepwell
I'm a Text

INSERT IMAGE

Kundi Area
I'm a Text

